

LEAD MINING DOCUMENTS

Part of this collection was deposited in the Derbyshire Record Office in 1965, and the remainder during Autumn 1967 and Spring 1968. The permanent deposit of the whole collection made the production of a detailed list necessary, which would replace the earlier rough list of the 1965 deposit. The collection was in some confusion, and a good deal of sorting had to be done before it could be catalogued. Some documents were still in archival bundles, but others had been disturbed and had to be re-assembled. These latter are described as miscellaneous bundles in the catalogue.

The collection forms two parts. The records of the High Peak barmoot courts and barmasters consist mainly of records taken over by A. G. Taylor, barmaster and mineral agent, who had his office in Town Hall Chambers. The barmasters' books and barmoot court records have been arranged as far as possible under liberties, and the accounts of the mineral duties due to the Crown's lessee, the Duke of Devonshire, and to the lords of private liberties under persons. A good deal of the barmasters' papers, particularly correspondence, could not be placed under these heads, and is listed under the barmasters concerned, in chronological order.

The second part of the collection consists of the records of private companies, the most important of which are the records of the Alport Mining Company. The remainder consist of miscellaneous reports etc whose provenance is uncertain and solicitors' files.
