- 41 Pedigree of Pulesdon of Maidford (co. Northampton)
- 42 Daniel Dakeyne jun. from London to Daniel Dakeyne at Darley Dale : his journey to town in the mail coach was more agreeable than travelling in the heavy coach. "The mail admitting but four inside passengers gives an opportunity of leaning into a corner ... whereas in the heavy one, one may chance to fall to a middle seat beside the disadvantage of being a longer time upon the road"; has managed to procure a reader's ticket for the British Museum, where reading is from 11 am to 3 pm, five days a week; has found several things which tend to reflect strongly on William Dakeyn who is styled the lewd usurper of the office of Norroy King of Arms; spent nearly the whole of Saturday in Doctors Commons, transcribing (with great difficulty) old wills. PS: "preserve this letter lest I should lose my notes by any accident". 20 November 1792
- 43 Thomas Grinston from Beverley to Daniel Dakeyne jun. at Darley Dale: regrets being unable to help him but suggests several sources of manuscript collections. 2 April 1798
- 44 Samuel Ayscough from London to same: "a pheasant and a brace of remarkable fine hares is a reward by far greater than any little assistances or civilities I may have showed to you could merit"; has discovered the people in charge of the office of the duchy of Lancaster: there is no likelihood of a dispensation from the fees. "The most minute research is charged 10/6 which must for every opening of a book be repeated". 13 January 1794
- 45 F. Russell from the Duchy of Lancaster Office to same; will try to give all reasonable assistance; the only outlay will be a tip for the messenger who brings the records. 17 March 1794
